

HOW GOOD IT IS TO SING

(Psalm 147)

Words & Music Brenton Brown, Keith Getty & Stuart Townend

♩ = 86

INTRO

1. How good it is to sing,
to bring our praise to Him
whose love and mercy knows no end.
He brings the sun and rain,
He calls each star by name,
the universe resounds with praise.

VERSE

*O shout for joy to God and sing a new song,
extol the Lord of life for His provision,
and He delights in those who love and fear Him,
all those who put their hope in God.
(All those who put their hope in God,
all those who put their hope in God.)*

CHORUS

2. He gathers families,
orphans and refugees,
and binds the wounds of those who mourn;
the humble lifted high,
the proud He casts aside,
His justice faithful as the dawn.

1. (to verse 2)

3. What friend or foe can last before His icy blast?
The winds and waves obey His voice.
Yet mercy will prevail,
His love will reconcile
the nations of the earth to Him.
